DINSMORE CASE IS A PUZZLING MYSTERY

Financial Prospects of Missing
Artesia Man Were Excellent and Domestic Affairs Were Happy.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]
Roswell, N. M., June 13.—The mysterious disappearance of Charles A. Dinsmore of Artesia, as the days slip by presents one of the most puzzling cases of the kind in the history of the country. Dinsmore now has been gone three weeks. Leaving Artesia in his automobile, he and the car disappeared as completely as if the earth had swallowed him up. Not a trace of even the remotest kind has been found to account for the missing man.

Investigation has shown that his financial affairs were in good condition; that he recently had completed annual assessment work, or proof, on oil claims which cost him in the neighborhood of $17,000, and that he was arranging for extensive development of the claims. His domestic relations are proven to have been happy in every way. Absolutely no reason why he should about himself has been discovered. Yet the man is gone, and search through the whole southwest has failed to find a single trace of him. The search is being continued with the aid of accomplished detectives.

HILLSBORO SLOWLY DIGGING HER WAY OUT OF THE RUINS

Flood Which Wrecked Sierra County Town Played Some Queer Freaks With Men and Their Property.

RAMPART OF BARRELS
SAVED A THIRST PARLOR

Another Turned Around and Carried $5 Feet Without Breaking a Glass; Adobe
Houses Ones to Suffer.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]
Hillsboro, N. M., June 14.—Hillsboro is digging itself out of the debris that covers most of its business section and is taking stock of its losses which amount to about $45,000 in the town. The buildings that have collapsed entirely were all adobe structures like the Hucher residence. Houses with cement coatings were not seriously damaged. Among the latter was the home of District Attorney Tittman which stands just above the Hucher house, and around which the waters surged five feet high. Most of the damaged buildings will be repaired. The loss of life was but one but that will be felt because Thomas Murphy was one of the leading and best men of the town. He was found by a searching party lying among driftwood on a bench fifty feet above the creek bed in what is known as box canyon three miles below town. All his clothes except his shoes and his tie were gone. His body was mangled but his bones were broken. He lost his life while trying to fight his way to the lodge rooms of the Eastern Star where Mrs. Murphy and several women were marooned—a building which it was feared might collapse. The swirling waters picked him up as he tried to turn the corner. Two eye witnesses saw him go.

The water played queer pranks. A one story adobe house, belonging to County Clerk Andrew Kelly, which was supposed to be bound to go in a big flood was not damaged much. Two light frame buildings at the point where the creek entered Main street though surrounded by water were not moved. One of them was occupied by a man who stayed in it all through the flood and whom his friends believed dead. A pair of assay scales was carried clear through town without its glass being broken. Esteban Corral saved his saloon by placing beer barrels in front of the door and nailing them down. The saloon of Charles Meyer, a frame building, was turned around and floated off 25 feet without disturbing the skillfully pyramided glass on the shelves back of the bar.

That the loss of life was not greater is remarkable as many business men were in their stores closing up when the flood came. The bank was not damaged beyond flooding with several inches of mud. The Sierra County Advocate, one of the two papers here, will probably not be issued for some weeks as all its type is pied or covered with mud.

John Dye, assistant cashier, formerly of Albuquerque made a thrilling rescue of his pony which was tied in the corral back of the bank. He swam out to the horse and untied it and tried to lead it out swimming, but the waters rose so high that he was forced to look out for himself. He untied the rope, however, and the horse found refuge in the next corral while Dye fought his way back to the house in the turbulent waters. Joe Badger of Keller Miller's store, made an attempt to get to his home but when he stepped out of the store he was turned over by the flood and escaped as if by a miracle. He and Frank Keller climbed up on barrels when the water rose in the store.

BANK OFFICIALS SAY MALICE BEHIND THE ATTEMPT TO CAUSE RUN

Clovis, N. M., June 12.—Officials of the First National bank here believe that malicious efforts were behind the incident run which started on the bank Tuesday and which for a short time seriously annoyed the bank force. Closing hours of the bank recently have been advanced from 4 to 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A depositor it was said, first called at the bank at 2:15 and not knowing of the new closing rule, spread the report that the bank was closed. A run started and the business interests and neighbor banks responding quickly, and knowing the sound condition of the institution stopped what might have been a serious run. It is now said the bank officials have evidence that it was not the work of a frightened depositor but a malicious attempt to injure the institution.

Hard Luck For the Garden.
—Ladies' Home Journal.
"Your garden doesn't look very promising this year," said the neighbor, "what's the matter?"
"Well," said the wife, "every time my husband got to digging in it he found a lot of worms, and they always reminded him of his fishing tackle."

CORONER'S JURY SAYS MAXWELL BOY'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Maxwell, N. M., June 13.—A coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death over the remains of Harry R. Ingledue, son of R. A. Ingledue, who shot himself in his father's home near lake 11 on the Maxwell farm tract last Sunday. The boy was alone in the house at the time and the last seen of him alive was by his younger brother who went fishing, and left Harry sitting in the house apparently in good spirits. Harry was irrigating some land near the house and was making frequent trips out to watch the water. When the brother returned from his fishing trip he found Harry lying on the bed in a pool of blood. Death had resulted from a bullet through the head from a .44 calibre revolver. It is believed he was looking into the muzzle of the gun when it was discharged.

Certainty.

"I can tell you," said the accurate man, "how much water goes over Niagara Falls to a quart."
"How much?" asked his skeptical friend.
"Two pints."

GALLUP HAS TWO TRAGEDIES IN A WEEK

Young Santa Fe Employee Believed to Have Shot Himself by Accident; Stabbing
Affray Results Fatally.

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]
Gallup, N. M., June 12.—Gallup has had two tragedies this week. Fred C. Cross, 22 years old, an employee of the Santa Fe store house here, wandered into the foothills with a six-shooter, telling his landlady that he was going out to do a little shooting for amusement. When he failed to return a search was instituted and the body was found with a bullet hole through the body just above the heart. The body was found lying ten feet or more from the gun, and there were no powder burns on the clothing. Death is believed to have been accidental as there was no known motive for suicide.
Earlier in the week Pedro Montoya died as the result of knife wounds received in a stabbing affray with Juan Sanchez, a stepon. Sanchez is in jail.

DEMING BANKS WILL BE CONSOLIDATED

Deming, N. M., June 13.—Just as soon as the banking laws can be put into operation and Uncle Sam's treasury department puts its stamp of approval on the transaction, the Deming National bank and the First State bank of Deming will consolidate under the name of the Deming National bank, which is the only national bank in the county and is a member of the Federal Banking association. For this reason the National bank will be maintained. The joining of these two solid financial institutions makes a capital and surplus of about $50,000 and gives the new institution resources of nearly half a million.

FIND FILLING OF MOUNTAIN POSTAL JOBS DIFFICULT

[Special Correspondence to the Herald]
Cuba, N. M., June 13.—Post Office Inspector Moran has spent the past few days in Cuba investigating the post office situation and the mail routes between here and Bernalillo, and Hesperia.

Mrs. Frances Beam, the present post mistress, resigned several months ago, and a civil service examination was called to fill the vacancy, at Albuquerque, in October.
Mrs. Leonard Montoya who received second rating in the examination, being in line for appointment, received the appointment. Mrs. Montoya had held the office previous to Mrs. Beam's appointment, and is employed by A. Eichwald. As soon as the information reached Cuba, charges of various nature were filed against Mrs. Montoya, with protests against the appointment. Mr. Moran has investigated these charges at this time. Much difficulty is being experienced by the postoffice department in securing bids to suit it for the star routes out from here. The parcel post is responsible for this condition, and bidders are asking at least double the old contract prices.

Mr. George Thomas, with Gross-Kelly, and Mr. Miller with Erickson-Fabian, have been interviewing the local merchants this week. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Miller are the first salesmen of the season in the vicinity. The summer months will probably bring in many more. They came in by way of Cabazon and left for Jones Springs.

Corpus Christi will be celebrated here this year by mass and procession. The streets are being decorated and several beautiful altars will be erected for the event.

The office of the United States land commissioner has been declared vacant here by the resignation of John Mandoval.

JUDGMENT AGAINST JOURNAL PUB. CO. CONFIRMED

Supreme Court Today Affirms
Decision of Lower Court
Awarding Colbert $3000
Damages for Libel.

[Special Dispatch to the Herald]
Santa Fe, N. M., June 15.—The state supreme court today handed down a decision affirming the decision of the lower court in the case of Dr. J. W. Colbert against the Journal Publishing company, publishers of the Albuquerque Morning Journal, awarding Colbert $3,000 damages for alleged libel, and assessing the costs against the defendant. The court in its opinion defines express malice and holds repetition of the alleged libelous article to be additional libel. The suit was brought by Dr. Colbert against the Journal following the publication of articles concerning his domestic relations and was preceded by criminal charges which were dismissed.

NEW MEXICO PLACED IN THIRD EXPRESS ZONE

[Special Dispatch to Evening Herald]
Santa Fe, N. M., June 15.—Corporation Commissioner O. L. Owen returned today from Chicago, where he attended a conference of the state corporation commissions with the express companies of the country, for the adjustment of express rates. New Mexico, as a result of this conference, has been placed in what is known as the third zone, which will mean a material reduction in express rates. Twenty-nine states were represented at the conference.

FOUR THOUSAND PEOPLE IN CORPUS CHRISTI PARADE

Four thousand people participated in the Corpus Christi day parade here yesterday, the parade being the largest and most elaborate in the history of the famous festival in this city.

He Didn't Know.

The curious pedestrian stopped where a man was working in his garden, and, wishing to be friendly, he said, "I say, my friend, how deep is your lot?"
"The man looked up from his work.
"I really don't know, stranger," he said, "I never dug down far enough to find out."
